RIGOROUS AND INDEPENDENT VALUATION PROCESS

INDEPENDENT THIRD-PARTY VALUATION

- ▶ Every investment is marked quarterly and has been marked since inception at fair value by a third-party
- ▶ Third-party valuation agents complete a review of all assets with positive assurance (i.e., not merely a “negative assurance” process)

SENIOR PORTFOLIO MANAGER

- ▶ Preliminary valuation discussions are documented and discussed with senior Prospect management

AUDIT COMMITTEE

- ▶ Prospect’s Independent Audit Committee reviews the preliminary valuations
- ▶ Prospect Capital Management and the third-party valuation agent respond to and supplement any information required by Prospect’s Audit Committee

PROSPECT’S BOARD OF DIRECTORS

- ▶ Prospect’s majority independent board of directors determines the fair value of each investment in the portfolio based on the third-party valuations and recommendations from Prospect’s Audit Committee
- ▶ To date, the Board’s final valuations have never been outside the range provided by the third-party valuation firm

DIVERSIFIED FUNDING SOURCES

- ▶ Access to diversified funding sources across multiple investor bases
- ▶ Emphasis on unsecured term debt with no financial covenants or cross defaults with revolving credit facility
- ▶ Prospect's corporate credit rating is BBB by Kroll, BBB by Egan-Jones, Baa3 by Moody's, and BBB- by S&P

Source: Company filings. Quarterly returns based on the line item “net increase in net assets resulting from operations” on the income statement. To calculate a quarterly return rate, quarterly returns were divided by the sum of the net asset value from the prior quarter’s filing (beginning net asset value) and half of the change in paid-in capital between the prior quarter and the then-current quarter. Annual and cumulative figures derived from compounding of quarterly returns.

1. Total return average was calculated by taking the geometric average of all quarterly returns and then annualizing by compounding over four periods.
